Introducing the Flourish Model

Optimising human values and worldviews to serve individual, social and environmental flourishing

The Flourish Model is a new ecological wellbeing framework that is currently contributing to global discussions on what underpins the development of a compassionate and sustainable world. It provides a multi-disciplinary evidence base that both celebrates and expands upon the original thinking of Maria Montessori and actively supports the ongoing work of the Global Montessori community.

Acknowledging the child as the centre of the system
Understanding the Ecological Self
Recognising our common humanity
Promoting the importance of early years development
Recognising the importance of energetic 'flow'
Recognising young children as a global citizens and powerful agents for change
Recognising the biological and spiritual rights of the child
Compassion for Self, Others and the Natural World
Promoting a Pedagogy of Love

Seeing the Early Years as a critical element for Education for Sustainable Development (ESD)

The Flourish Model provides an ecological underpinning to the SDGs and explores how young children can become active participants in protecting the wellbeing of future generations

"We shall walk together on this path of life, for all things are a part of the universe, and are connected with each other to form one whole unity."
